

Objectives

Its core objectives are to enhance student involvement in the field of project management, to raise the interest in professional project management at a national and international level, as well as to advance the dialogue, the knowledge sharing and know-how between research and the business world.

Traditionally, AEIPRO-IPMA SPAIN have been organizing the national event since 2014. Therefore, this year is the 9th edition of the PM Championship in our Country, and for the first time ever, AEIPRO is also organizing the international final.

Call for Sponsors!

Considering the magnitude of the events that have been organized this year, AEIPRO is willing to open it to any organization which is interested in collaboration.

Those events are a great opportunity to link your brand to this high-level completion, get impact in project management social networks and prospect new talents.

MORE INFORMATION

aeipro@dpi.upv.es

0034 963 879 172

<https://www.aeipro.com/es/>

IPMA Project Management Championship

The IPMA PM Championship is a 3-stage competition consisting of a qualification round, the national final and the international final. The international final will be hosted each year by a different country.

IPMA PM Championship is targeted at full-time students at higher education studying project-related courses.

National Stage
Madrid. 21 April 2023

International Stage
Valencia. 2/3 June 2023

Nacional Stage

During national stage, students from main universities of our country involve in the competition representing its training program. The number of teams taking part during last 4 editions oscillates between 8 and 16 teams, and more than 12 universities were represented.

The national final is co-organised with Universidad Politécnica de Madrid, the ETSIAAB school and the Investigation group GESPLAN. The national final will take place the 21st of April in Madrid.

What can we offer?

Depending on the event, national or international, AEIPRO-IPMA Spain can offer a full package of sponsorship benefits.

National Final Package

Specially thought for national companies, but not only.

- Branding promotion: Your brand will be linked to the event by including it in all the marketing materials, webpage, rollups, merchandising, etc.
- Talent prospection: CVs from the participants can be requested, collected and shared with a ranking report of the competition.
- Press and social media diffusion: your company name, hashtag or tag will be included in all the social network posts and press notes.

International Final Package

A great complement for the national stage sponsorship or for international companies.

- Branding promotion: Your brand will be linked to the event by including it in all the marketing materials, webpage, rollups, merchandising, etc.
- Press and social media diffusion: your company name, hashtag or tag will be included in all the social network posts and press notes.

Sponsorship rates

National Final Package: 1.000€
 International Final Package: 600€
 Full Package: 1.500€

International Stage

In the international final of the IPMA PM Championship the winning team of each country will represent its country. Normally between ten and twelve countries are involved in the final, most of the from Europe, but not only.

Last edition, more than 400 participants took place from 14 different countries and along two continents. The winning team was Spain and as conscience, the final is held this year by our country.

The International Final of the IPMA Project Management Championship Edition 2023 will be held in Valencia, Spain on 2-3 June 2023. And will be co-organised with Universidad Politécnica de Valencia.

